Fabrication of customer products can be done with “off-the-shell” specifications or so customized starting from its conceptualization until its final production.

We at SFLI are committed in establishing this type of working partnership with our clients in order to meet customer demands, in terms of costs and quality. We complement this by setting up the most appropriate and efficient delivery scheme for their business. This capability is built on our considerable experience in the packaging business catering to retail products, electronics and automotive industries. The use of modern information technology is incorporated in all SFLI business and internal transactions to allow the efficient monitoring and supervision of production requirements as well as delivery schedules.
